MONDAY EVENING, DEC. 11, 1882.

ROSSER & MCCARTHY,
PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS.

OUR friend, the China Palace king,
Proclaims to all, to-day,
He's going to bring the Christmas on
In good old-fashioned way.
He's got a thousand Christmas tricks
And just as cheap as any.
And you can get 'em though you bring,
A dollar or a penny.

The cold wave has retired.

Up to this time Hechinger, Thomas & Co., have killed and packed 1,100 hogs.

MR. JOHN SKINNER while returning home on Saturday evening slipped on the icy pavement and broke his arm.

THE engines on the Kentucky Central Railroad are in mourning for the death of Wm. Gray the fireman, killed by the collision of trains near Falmouth, recently.

MR. WM. RUDY, of this city, while fishing last October took out of his net an egg about the size of that of a pigeon. He took it home put it into a bottle, changing the water every day. The egg hatched a few days ago producing a fish that very much resembles the water dog.

MR. J. BLAKEBOROUGH, the jeweler, has a choice assortment of goods for the holidays to which he invites the attention of the BULLETIN's readers. The stock is very complete, and the prices if anything are a little lower than are usually asked for such articles. The public is asked to call and inspect the stock.

MRS. ELIZABETH BARR, a well known and much beloved citizen of East Maysville, died this morning at fifteen minutes of twelve o'clock after a painful illness of four weeks. She was a sincere christian a kind and indulgent mother and a firm and faithful friend. Her death will be lamented by a wide circle of friends here and elsewhere.

MARK PENNYWITT, engineer of the ill-fated Morning Star, died at New Orleans on Sunday morning. The remains will be brought to Manchester, Ohio, for burial. This destruction of this steamer was the most disastrous event that has ever occurred on the lower Mississippi. Of twenty-one persons on board, seventeen were killed or drowned and the remainder injured. No one escaped uninjured.

THE Lexington Gazette says:

Rev. Wm. Dudley Powers, pastor of Christ Church, Maysville, has accepted a call to Grace Church, near Baltimore, Md. This is a most desirable parish. The congregation being composed of cultivated Baltimoreans, they and Mr. Powers are to be mutually congratulated. Mr. Powers is a young man, and has only been in the ministry three years. He possesses one very rare gift, a most delightful voice, and is very happy in being able to put in the truth in such a simple, clear, yet forcible way as to impress his hearers at once, not only with his own earnestness and sincerity, but that the religion of "Christ and Him Crucified" which he preaches is far better than any novelty. We trust that his labors in the new field to which he will soon go will be blessed.

Shooting.

On Friday night about 9 o'clock while S. B. Oldham, of this city, was passing along the Flemingsburg turnpike, near the residence of Mrs. S. M. Gilmore, he encountered a party of young men consisting of Frank Hasson, Geo. Means and Hiram Hendrixson. He was addressed by the party and had some words with Frank Hasson. Shortly after a shot was fired, it is supposed by George Means, the ball inflicting a slight wound in the back of Oldham's head. Means was arrested and will have his examining trial on Tuesday.

The Hog as a Political Factor.

Washington Special to Times-Star.

An interesting story is told here as to the way the Maysville, Kentucky, District was carried for the Republicans. It comes from a prominent Cincinnati Republican, who knows the inside pretty thoroughly. He says that Culbertson, the Republican candidate, was associated in business with a prominent stock buyer of that section.

After the nomination Culbertson said to the Republican State Committee: "Now I can carry the district if I can have my own way with it; but if I am to do so I want to be left alone. You fellows must keep hands off. This is a Democratic district by a considerable majority, but I am good for it if I am not interfered with."

"Well, what do you want in the way of speeches?" inquired the managers. "Nothing," was the reply. "Not a speech in this district if I am to carry it. I only want a little printing and a little money, which I shall be able to put to better use than any of you could do. So the Committee decided to leave Culbertson to manage his own campaign, though when he asked to have his associate, the hog buyer made manager of the campaign for that district they nearly fainted. "Don't you be alarmed," said Mr. Culbertson, "I know what I'm about." So matters were arranged to suit him, and the committee awaited the result. The Democrats sent their best speakers into the district, and the yeomanry were exhorted to cling to their principles of Democracy. Nothing was heard from Culbertson or his hog buying friend. But it was observed that soon after the speech-making began the shipments of hogs from the Maysville district showed remarkable activity. Each speech brought fresh shipments of hogs, and every time, directly or indirectly, from the Republican manager. Occasionally the financier of the state committee would receive a note from Culbertson asking him to be at a given point in the district on a certain day. In responding, he always observed that the hog buyer was on hand vigorously buying hogs and talking with the people. Not a Republican speech was made in the district during the entire campaign, but the number of hogs shipped from Maysville to Cincinnati was unexampled, and when the votes were counted it was found that the Maysville district had transformed its Democratic majority of 2,000 or 3,000 into a very handsome plurality for the Republican candidate.

THE Willard Hotel Lottery Company, of Louisville, has been sued by ticket holders at Lynchburg, Va. They represent that they asked to have a pro rata of their money refunded and were refused by the company.
